NIGHT STAR WINS ROOTY HILL DERBY

COO COO BAY DISAPPOINTS FOR THIRD TIME

Beaten Out Of Place In American Cup

DIANA BAY TURNS TABLES ON SADKO: FRESH RECORD ESTABLISHED

(By "MORNING DEW")

AS PREDICTED, NIGHT STAR WON THE ROOTY HILL DERBY YESTERDAY. CITY OF BRISBANE WAS SECOND AND RATION THIRD. IT WAS A COMPARATIVELY SLOW RACE AND D. S. LI DESERVES SPECIAL MENTION FOR THE MANNER IN WHICH HE HANDLED THE WINNER.

Jack started in the second race and won it easily doing the mile in 2.01. Mayflower finished second here and looking very much as though he must win a race before the end of the meeting.

Coo Coo Bay disappointed for a third time yesterday, being unplaced in the American Cup. The race went to Cossack's Beauty.

Mr. L. Dunbar won The Governor's Cup with Diana Bay, the pony setting a new record for the mile and a quarter, and, incidentally turning the tables of Sadko, who had, on Saturday, created a sensation by beating the famous mare.

GLENEAGLES WINS EXCHANGE PLATE

Gleneagles won the Exchange Plate by half a length to pay a poor dividend of $5.30. It was a very close thing and King's Justice ridden by G. U. de la Rosa ran the winner to half a length. Don created a degree of surprise when he put up a hot challenge in the straight but was no match for Gleneagles in the very last bit of the race.

Burgomaster Falls.

The Daily Press selection for the first race, Burgomaster, failed to get home by the shortest margin imaginable. Clark rode a very good race, but Jingle, ridden by Heard put up an unexpectedly good spurt in the straight to snatch the verdict by the shortest of margins in a thrilling finish. White Butterfly, a rank outsider finished third.

Jack Wins.

Jack, the mystery pony, about which so much has been written, proved that he was in fact a very good candidate when he won the Tientsin Stakes easily, leading all the way home. Mayflower was a good second and The Gotwit filled third place. There was not a big dividend here as the public judge form to a nicety.

Outsider Wins.

There were only five starters in The Coral Plate, over seven furlongs for non-winning Australian griffins, and thanks to a flying start, Needs kept Cossack's Choice in front, all the way to out the favourites, Tecumseh and Northern Star. Hill was badly left but came up early on, but this effort cost the pony enough energy to prevent him making any kind of a show on the run home.

Bistre Home.

Bistre came home in the Royal Navy Cup without much effort, and here again the public judged form to a nicety and backed Bistre heavily. Helter Skelter, second in demand finished second and Mistletoe came along with a rush in the last quarter to displace Gallant Fox for third place.

Sub-Grimms Plate.

One of the best, if not the best finish of the meeting was seen in this race when three ponies flashed past the post in what appeared to be a straight line. Golden Dragon, Warrington and Black Rock gave the order in which the judges gave their verdict which was assisted by the large crowd with breathless interest.

American Cup.

The American Cup drew a field of six and there was a very big demand for Coo Coo Bay, but the pony once again proved that he does not like the racing business. Frost sent him to the front early on but before the straight was reached he was a well beaten pony, tiring rapidly. Cossack's Beauty won this event with Jingle Jim second a few lengths behind and Brechin third. The last named did not run at all well and is by no means showing his true form. When he does that, he will turn up some ruttlingly good times.

Rooty Hill Derby.

This race although it drew seven starters was in reality a tussle between Night Star, Ration and City of Brisbane. Frost who rode the last named took the lead early on and it was not until half the journey was covered that anybody disputed the lead. At that stage Nguk and Golden Dawn joined him, but three furlongs later, both had dropped out of the picture. Night Star hung comfortably within three to four lengths of the leader all the way and Ration too was within striking distance all the way. In the straight Night Star easily caught up City of Brisbane and won comfortably. Ration, however, had to be satisfied with third place.

The Raincloud chose to wait at the back of the field, but although the pony responded very well in the concluding stages of the race, it was no match for the leaders and Heard was not able to make any headway in the run home. He finished fourth.

This is the second time Messrs. Kong Bros. have won the Rooty Hill Derby, as last year their representative, Polar Star, carried off the race.

Favourite Falls.

The Gymkhana Stakes found King's Bounty with Needs up, at 14 pounds a very hot favourite, but the pony was beaten by three lengths by Gay Crusader ably ridden by T. L. Wong, who came home in a fraction over 1.50. Needs chose a slow race for King's Bounty and the pony was unable to come up in the home straight.

Navy Hall Wins.

Mon Talisman was all the rage in the last race, and in keeping with the number of upsets during the day, he failed. Navy Hall was handled in a masterly way by Hoare, who gave a new race for him in the first half mile and came through beautifully in the last half to win comfortably. Mon Talisman put up a hot challenge in the home straight but was not equal to it. California was third.

CHAMPIONS' DAY

Prospects Reviewed

LIBERTY BAY SHOULD WIN

(By "MORNING DEW.")

To-day is Champions' Day and although there is every reason to be gratified with the attendance at Happy Valley during the earlier days of the meeting, the attendance to-day can be expected to be much bigger.

Liberty Bay should start a hot favourite for the big race and should win. Trentbridge is a real threat, and after the convincing way he won the Derby, there are sure to be a good number of supporters for Mrs. Pearce's candidate. Sadko might start in this race but is not likely to be a danger to the favourites. The field will probably consist of three runners only. A record time is predicted. Diana Bay, after winning the Governor's Cup yesterday will probably not start.

There ought to be quite a good deal of interest in the Ladies' Purse, if Gleneagles stays out, but if Mr. Dunbar's candidate goes out he should win handsomely. If Sadko goes out here instead of in the "Champions," Needs stands a good chance of winning the purse. The "Spurs" Club Gun for subscription griffins ought to provide a good race. Golden Dragon ought to command a good following if started, and Black Rock too should do well. The Goat is not to be entirely overlooked and by this time Black Velvet ought to be a good outsider.

Polar Star should win to-day if started, but if kept back the stable has Evening Star, another very good candidate.

MISS WILLA CATHER'S
NEW BOOKS

Obscure Destinies. By Willa Cather. London: Cassell & Co. Pp. 223. 7s. 6d. net.

Miss Willa Cather's new book contains three long stories, and at the end of each we encounter death. But, if the sensitive reader allows this fact to turn him from them he will do so at his peril, for there have been few lovelier contributions to the art of fiction in recent years, few nobler tributes to the essential goodness of human life—and if we were challenged to name one lovelier or nobler it might easily be an earlier novel by Miss Cather herself. With flying colours she passes the test by which writers of fiction stand or fall, so far as their quality as artists is concerned—that of portraying the world's quieter people, the humble men and women of uneventful lives. After all, brutality and sensationalism are for the coarse brush. The delicacy and tenderness of the story entitled "Neighbour Rosicky" are perfect. Rosicky is an old emigrant farmer in the Middle West of America, who has worked hard and honestly and lived contentedly with his happy-natured wife and family. In his youth Rosicky had struggled as a tailor in a city shop until the spring came, when he felt the deliciousness of nature, even from the distance, and responded to it. By scraping a little money together he was able to make his way into the country, where he bought a strip of land, and there, on the farm he built, we see him with the sons who help him to wrest a livelihood from the soil. The picture is like music in its complete harmony. And when the old man dies the end is like music fading. The principal figure in the second story is a feminine counterpart of Rosicky, the ancient Mrs. Harris, a grandmother who is loving, kind, unobtrusive even as he. The remaining story, "Two Friends," is more rugged in theme, although just as exquisitely written. It tells of two commonplace business men who quarrel over politics, in spite of their mutual affection, and never meet again. From the technical standpoint the best impression left by this book is of a complete avoidance of overemphasis, a complete absence of so-called fine writing.

OLD WINE AND NEW

A fastidious critic might find Mr. Warwick Deeping's psychology summary; a hardheaded reader that he sweetens life too lavishly with sentiment. But nobody could fairly deny that in OLD WINE AND NEW (Cassell, 7s. 6d. net) he fulfils that primary function of a novelist, which is to start a story and keep it briskly rolling. One may not feel quite so affectionate as his creator evidently does towards Spenser Scarsdale, that cup of rather thin old—or rather middle-aged—wine either in his first self-revelation as a hospital orderly in the War, given to inopportune puzzlements about the meaning of the great horror, or as an intellectually genteel journalist contending against the angry effervescence of the new wine of aggressiveness and licence in the post-war years. But Mr. Deeping sees to it that Spenser must be interested in Scarsdale's fate and in suspense about his next misadventure, whether professional, as his incapacity to write what the new world wants becomes more and more obvious, or amorous, as his quixotically absurd wooing of Julia Marwood, the hard, rapacious young daughter of a wartime comrade by whose death-bed he has stood, progresses to its inevitable tragicomic catastrophe.

And what next? Mr. Deeping has always a new scene set, a new figure ready to enter on its cue; and it is for him, not his reviewer, to tell how Scarsdale went down to the depths of penury in London before he was stripped of his gentility and learned to write about a life of which he had actually experienced the sharp teeth. He might have still remained the "ribbit" that he accused himself so often being but for a different woman, wine from the old bottle but of a stronger, rural quality, whom he discovered in a cheap Highbury lodging-house. And this Edward Hammond—is also, summarily, a better character than a person, and a more convincing one.

SHORTER NOTICES

A WELL CONSTRUCTED MURDER STORY.

THE BIRD CAGE. A Mystery Novel. By Eimar O'Duffy. 7s. 6d. 286 pp. Geoffrey Bles. 7s. 6d.

A well-constructed and admirably written detective story in which an exceptionally clever criminal succeeds in making the police believe that the murder is the work of another man. The body of one Wilson from America is found dead in a room of the Grand Hotel, Spurn Cove. In his luggage are the plates used for counterfeiting bank notes of the Republic of San Felipe, also a threatening letter written to Harry Bronson, living near the hotel. Obviously, say the police, thieves have fallen out, and Bronson, who has disappeared, is the murderer. But Inspector Cranley's fiancée, clerk at the hotel, and Bronson's own fiancée are not so sure. The one does a little (and perilous) detective work on her own account and the other calls in the help of Investigations, Limited, a private inquiry business. Gradually evidence is accumulated together like bits of a jigsaw puzzle and a deeply laid scheme slowly emerges. Mr. O'Duffy has his prejudices—amusing things at the capitalist system, for instance; but that only adds to the vivacity of his pages.

A DISAPPEARANCE MYSTERY

FULLER'S EARTH. By Carolyn Wells. A Fleming Stone Detective Story. 7s. 6d. 319 pp. Lippincott. 7s. 6d. n.

Duncan Searle, the head of a New York firm of importers, had a country house in Massachusetts named Silver Spray Farm. His spare time was devoted to useful chemical investigations, carried out in a laboratory attached to the house. Duncan, a tall man, given occasionally to fits of ungovernable impatience, was sitting out on the lawn one afternoon when, some neighbours arriving, he went into the house to look for his wife, Carlotta. From that moment he disappeared dramatically from the world. About half an hour later Carlotta came out on to the lawn and greeted the guests. The company included Leonard Colvin and, notably, his wife, Erminie, with whom Searle was passionately in love. Among these also present who were important in view of subsequent events were Austin, Duncan's younger brother, and Ronald Booth, who was in love with Carlotta. As time went on without any sign of the missing man the official police had to be called in, but the mystery was finally solved by Fleming Stone, an unofficial detective, who has figured in other tales by this authoress.

CONDENSED HISTORY

THE RICH CARGO. By F. E. Mills Young. 7s. 6d. 319 pp. John Lane. 7s. 6d. n.

"This book is less a novel than a condensed history of South Africa, written in the form of fiction, from the earliest days of white settlement to the year 1933." In these words the author sums up a work which is remarkably alike for the scope of its information and the impartiality with which conflicting views and controversial problems are put to the reader's consideration. "The rich cargo" is the cargo of civilization which the ships of the white races have brought to the black man's shores, a cargo, so history shows, rich in trouble as well as blessings. The author is not, however, concerned so much with the clash of colour, inevitably struck by European penetration, as with racial antipathies among the Europeans themselves; here the responsible factors have little to do with civilization but are derived directly from politics and temperament, singularly difficult to reconcile. These difficulties are illustrated by the mutual actions and reactions of the Beer family, Van Zyl, and John Dale, the English settler, with the consequences to their descendants. As a romance it is inconclusive and lightly so, owing to its historical perspective; as a social study it reaches conclusions with which many will not agree, be they Dutch, or British, but which have both breadth and weight.

DISCIPLINE IN THE CHURCH

Measure Before
Convocation

Nonconformists and the Sacrament. The B.C.C., the admission of Nonconformists to Holy Communion, and ecclesiastical discipline, were among the subject discussed by the two Houses of the Canterbury Convocation at their opening session.

The Archbishop of Canterbury presided over the Upper House. He opened the session with a reference to the economic ills of England and the world in general. He pointed out at once the signs of gradual improvement and the fortitude of character which had made the period less hard to bear.

A motion was moved by the Bishop of Winchester (Dr. Garbett) welcoming the series of lectures on the Christian religion arranged by the B.C.C. for alternate Sundays in 1933, and drawing attention to "the valuable opportunity they afford of promoting adult education in religious knowledge." "There are," he said, "a large number of people who are totally ignorant as to what Christianity really is. Again and again those who attack the Christian faith are not really attacking Christianity; they are attacking some false conception they have formed of it. Many of us admire the writings of Bernard Shaw, in whom we have one of the most brilliant and widely-read authors. But in his last book on religion he displays a lamentable ignorance of the meaning and the teaching of the Christian Faith."

Position of Nonconformists.

An important debate arose on the consideration of a resolution from the Lower House dealing with the admission of Nonconformists to Holy Communion. The motion in turn arose from other resolutions which had been sent down to the Lower House and had received long and thorough consideration, involving the presentation of four committee reports. The majority report was obtained only by the casting vote of the Chairman. The Archbishop of Canterbury explained that the House was now asked to consider certain comments contained in Minority Report No. 2.

It will be recalled that the Bishops' proposals in this matter have been the subject of much comment from widely separated schools of opinion in the Church.

The Bishop of Truro (Dr. W. H. Freere) at once moved the postponement of the resolutions (which would imply their setting back for an almost indefinite period). He pointed out that, almost every section of the Committee had fired shots at the proposals, "doing enormous damage." Only one report, he said agreed fully with the proposals.

But on a vote Dr. Freere's resolution was rejected by 16 votes to two. A number of amendments of minor importance were then put, and subject to these the resolutions were passed.

Discipline.

In the Lower House Canon L. W. Bird moved the adoption of a report on the Benefices (Ecclesiastical Duties) Measure and a request to the Upper House to take steps to amend the Measure. This is a step towards the removal of the admittedly unsatisfactory state of affairs in regard to ecclesiastical discipline which has been brought to the fore by recent cases. Canon Bird said that under the present system it was objected that the Bishop was both prosecutor and judge, and it was proposed that elective committees be set up in the manner of civil grand juries. Furthermore there should be diocesan funds to meet the costs of clergy involved in disciplinary cases.

The motion was carried.

BOAT-RACE PRACTICE

CAMBRIDGE TRY A NEW SET OF OARS

Race Rowed on April 1.

Jan. 20.—The Cambridge University Boat-race crew tried a new set of oars during their training. The oars will be used in a lock-to-lock trial to-day from Victoria Bridge to Little Bridge. The eight had a long piece of rowing at twenty-six to the minute on the return journey yesterday, and were unchanged for the second day in succession.

Oxford, who were unchanged, made two journeys to Little and back, and with the exception of one or two short bursts were restricted to paddling at a stroke of eighteen to twenty.

F. Freeman (Trinity), who had been indisposed for some days, was able to take a turn in the pair with O. S. Reid (Oriel). P. Hogg (New), however, is still on the sick list.

Strengthen those weakened Nerves

SO TYPICAL ARE MOST OF the symptoms of "nervousness" that you can quite easily recognise nerve-weakness in yourself, your husband or your children. Irritability, fretfulness, loss of appetite, nervous headaches, sleeplessness—all these are signs of falling nerve strength. Isn't it only logical to give your weakened nerves an extra infusion of strength if you want to regain new health and vitality?

Feed your weakened nerves — with Sanatogen.

Sanatogen was made to strengthen the nerves and must do you good because it provides your body with nature's own building material of nervous energy, namely phosphorus. Sanatogen will give you strength to escape from that run-down condition and will bring you back to splendid health and vitality.

"In a half-hearted fashion I bought a tin of Sanatogen, but before getting to the end of it my spirits revived considerably and now I feel my happy self again. It made a tremendous difference to my whole life."

Mrs. G. H. M.

Try this wonderful influence of Sanatogen on your health and happiness by starting a course of this famous tonic to-day.

CAVALCADE THE PICTURE OF THE GENERATION

SOME AMERICAN REVIEWS

New York Herald Tribune. Annals of a foreign nation result in one of the greatest and most thrilling of the screen dramas. At the moment it seems to me that "Cavalcade" is the finest photoplay that has yet been made in the English language.

New York World Telegram. A beautiful stirring dignified memorable film has been made by Fox Films from Noel Coward's tremendous patriotic spectacle.

New York Daily News. "Cavalcade" is a magnificent achievement; adapted for the screen with drama, pathos, tenderness and thrill in the script, by Reginald Berkeley and Sonya Levien; directed understandingly by Frank Lloyd.

New York Times. It is unfurled with such marked good taste and restraint that many an eye will be misty after witnessing this production.

New York Daily Mirror. Profoundly moving and violently exciting this great film spectacle of the 20th century departs radically from all routine formulae of movie production. Fascinating in the novelty of its technique.

New York American. "Cavalcade" thunders across the screen of the Gaiety a stupendous undertaking magnificently achieved. Adhering closely to the play, the picture transcends its original.

New York Evening Journal. "Cavalcade" Noel Coward play that enthralled London theatre-goers for months, has been brought to the screen by the Fox Film Company. And Fox has made of it a magnificent picture. A picture that is emotionally exciting, impressively dramatic.

New York Sun. "Cavalcade" is superbly acted by a large cast. It is beautifully produced, well nigh perfect. The film is moving, inspiring. In short, no fault can be found with "Cavalcade" here. It seems an auspicious beginning for 1933, in the motion picture world. "Cavalcade" approached greatness in the cinema. It must be seen.

New York Evening Post. Regarded from almost any perspective, this extraordinarily exciting pageant thrusts back story challenge. It is an amusing and thrilling achievement, and for sheer emotional sweep and showmanship the screen has produced nothing quite like it.

MR. SHERRIFF ON TALKIES

MICKEY MOUSE OR GRETA GARBO

Mr. R. C. Sherriff gave a lecture recently on the effect of talkies on the legitimate stage.

The author of "Journey's End" but forward his theories modestly. They were, however, startling enough to please his audience, composed mainly of members of the Stage Society.

His three main points were:

That the Hollywood actor was completely out of touch with life. Hollywood might have to be moved nearer to the great cities.

That the screen was destroying itself because it was destroying its nursery—the provincial touring system. He foresaw the day when the screen in its own interest would have to subsidise the provincial theatre.

That the whole art of the cinema was becoming graphic. Mickey Mouse was to-day the supreme artist of the screen. In a hundred years' time our descendants would think we were mad ever to have used live people as screen actors.

An Answer to this Argument.

It is, in my view, writes a correspondent to a London paper, unfair to suggest that the film actor is more out of touch with life than the stage actor. Nearly all actors are unworldly. But the presentation of life on the screen is on average infinitely more realistic than in stage productions.

There is no reason to lament the decline of the provincial theatre as a nursery for screen actors. The sooner film producers realise that the screen and the stage demand entirely different techniques of acting, the better it will be.

Mickey Mouse is undoubtedly a great artist. But as for the contention that he is the supreme artist of the screen—I should like to know what would happen if cinema exhibitors reorganised their programmes so as to give five minutes of Greta Garbo and an hour and a half of Mickey Mouse.

A WEDDING

SUDIO JOKE THAT FRIGH- TENED THE BRIDE

Sally Eilers and Ralph Bellamy had just completed a wedding scene on the Movietone lot when an extra who had been the minister marrying the two, soberly confided that he was an ordained preacher and that the ceremony with wit-laces, ring and all, was legal. Ralph spluttered in confusion and Miss Eilers thought of friend husband Hoot Gibson. The "clergyman" insisted that he was telling the truth and offered to prove his claim. The pair learned later that they were victims of one of director Hamilton Macfadden's jokes.

COCHET, FILM STAR

HOW TO PLAY TENNIS TO BE SHOWN ON SCREEN

France's famous lawn tennis star, Henri Cochet, has just returned to Paris from the Riviera after making a film.

In fact, he is the only actor in the film, for his partner, who returns him the balls, never comes on to the screen.

The film shows all Cochet's most telling strokes.

"We have even tried to give some idea of the psychology of lawn tennis," Cochet said. He himself explains and comments in the course of the film, which is to be shown probably in April.

GITTA ALPAR

A CONTINENTAL GARBO

It is said that "Ball in Savoy," a new German talking picture, will be shown in London shortly. If this screen operetta is exhibited here picturegoers will be able to make a better acquaintance with one of the Continent's foremost players—Gitta Alpar. The fair Gitta is not unknown in Britain, as one or two of her films have crossed the Channel, yet I doubt whether her vocal powers were ever heard to advantage. Londoners were to have seen her in the stage version of "The Dubarry," but a change in arrangements brought the vivid Anna Ahlers to the West-End instead. According to Miss Ahlers, her colleague has "a voice like an angel," and those who own fairly powerful wireless sets may have heard Alpar's strangely individual notes being hurled from foreign stations. Her appearance is striking, the eyebrows being painted exceptionally high on the forehead.

Getting a Job on the Films in England

Weary Rounds of the Agents

AWAITING THE CALL FOR THEIR "TYPE"

"Of course," he murmured, "I'm a Mexican. That's why I can't be a Frenchman or a policeman. I could be a revolutionary and usually am. You get into these ruts—you have to."

Deliberately he set down the glass.

He was a film artist. And so, for a day was I, writes a correspondent to a London paper. You get into these ruts—you have to, and I did. But when celluloid sedition is afoot, my friend will be knitting 'em with any, for a guinea a day. Whereas when the phonograph buzz for a dozen Huntin' Type, quick, I trust I shall be at least as near to hound and horn as to the "set."

Are artists not the motto of the two or three thousand "extras" who swarm in Shaftsbury Avenue, in the agents' offices, and in their clubs and associations every day, hoping, hoping...

There are hunger-driven, one-time stage actors; there are ex-officers and ex-rangers, small pensioners and ex-amateurs; there are ex-gangsters and near-do-wells, whose ambition vis-a-vis the screen is merely to set "artist" on the baleful charge-sheet in place of "no fixed occupation."

Fate of the Many.

These last are the few. For the many, there is a dreary twelve-hour day of waiting, of wearily climbing mountainous stairs and descending empty-handed, of walking and retracing fruitless foot-steps along the length of Shaftsbury Avenue.

They are touring the offices of those agents with whom they are "registered," hoping to hear that there has been a "call" from some distant studio, that they are the right "type," and that they may secure a day's work or more at one guinea a day. And then, after a stretch of work, they will wait, and wait, and climb, for perhaps months to come.

I shared their dismal lot for a day, and when driving rain set in, symbolic of my acquaintances' fight against hopeless odds, I desisted. All I had done was to "register" at an office or two, conscious that it would lead nowhere, while elsewhere they would not so much as enter my dossier.

I had set out early, armed with the experience of amateur theatricals at Balcarras (Sask.), and with a bundle of portrait photographs. I climbed the never-ending flight of stairs to my first port of call in the hopeless half-mile. A mass of men and women seated in a tiny, ill-lit room about a half-closed door, for the word had gone about that there was a "call." There was no time to "register," and I left with the unsavoury impression of an old and weary woman in the corner conversing evanescently with a Chinese and a well-dressed youth, deceiving themselves that there was "something doing."

The next office was empty. A cheery young man came in, took charge of one of my photographs, and was polite enough to stimulate interest in my experience at Balcarras (Sask.). He scribbled a note or two on the back of the photograph.

"When shall I call again?"

"Next week or so, there might be something doing."

Up a few more flights of stairs a girl, perhaps in her teens, frowned me mechanically away. "We only register between 10.0 and 10.30. I'm sorry."

"FORGOTTEN COM-MANDMENTS"OPENING TO-DAY AT KING'SFollowing "Six Hours to Live" the King's Theatre are putting on another unusual film to-day."Forgotten Commandments" is a picture of modern life in Russia, and has as its motive an exposure of what life means when all the old standards are discarded. The picture has been ruthlessly censored for showing in China generally, but we understand that the film will be shown at the King's in the same completeness as it was shown in America. And there is no reason for censoring."Forgotten Commandments" could not be any amount of cutting be turned into propaganda for Communism, and it does not appear to attack the Soviet unfairly. All that the film sets out to do is to show the inevitable consequences of forgetting the old rules of life."Russia is your home, the people of the Soviet your family," says the hero of the picture. "You have no right to a private home or a personal family."The story is pointed by excerpts from Cecil B. de Mille's silent picture "The Ten Commandments," which are used to illustrate a sermon preached by a priest to a group of ragged Russian children. One cannot but be impressed by De Mille's power of showmanship.These pictures without speech made with a technique which is already old fashioned, yet have an astonishing power, and how aptly they point the moral. Israel in bondage under the cruellest of capitalist systems, escaped and became, for a time at least, a great nation because they lived by a strict code of laws which respected the Creator and the family. Russia is seeking escape by very different means.The principal parts are played by Irving Pichel, Marguerite Churchill,
Sari Maritza and Gene Raymond.They all play well and make a good team. In their hands, the story is real and the background of squalor and a ruthless disregard of the de-cencies and privacies of life heightens the tragic effect."Forgotten Commandments" is a film to see, it is interesting, dramatic and human, but above all thought provoking.

E.M.B.

countries, and discussions in newspaper and police offices, all of which would be ineffective without sound.You will see the crime reporter at work. Jack Hawkins plays the part, and he endeavours to be as ruthless and resourceful as the newspaper crime-man is supposed to be. To embellish a story and secure a front page "splash" he steals and publishes the photo of his sweetheart over an incident she revealed thereby running the risk of dismissal and distorts the result of a police official into "exclusive information." Whether these are representation of what would possibly occur is beside the point,
the incident is amusing and certainly well put over.

SARI MARITZA

A TIENSIN GIRL

Sari Maritza, vivacious young European film actress, stepped into one of the most coveted roles that Hollywood had to offer when Paramount selected her for the principal feminine part in "Forgotten Commandments," which opens to-day at the King's Theatre.
The fact that this is Miss Maritza's first American screen role makes her selection the more remarkable.Miss Maritza plays the vamp
"Any." Born in Tientsin, of English and Viennese parents, Miss Maritza made a name for herself in German and English films before she was twenty. In London she was starred in three productions by the Gaumont company.She is truly international in her intellectual equipment. She speaks English, for preference, while Austrian-German, the language of her Viennese mother, slips from her tongue with easy fluency, as does German. Her French is clean and sharp as French steel. She also speaks Chinese. The other day she was observed at the Paramount studios chatting with Ernest Lubitsch in German, Louis Gasnier in French and William Schorr in Russian, all in a space of an hour.To add to the international flavour of the conversation, she discovered an extra player who knew the Chinese language and conversed with him.

"THE LODGER"

AT THE QUEEN'S TOMORROWIn "The Lodger," a British picture coming to the Queen's to-morrow the films are giving intriguing entertainment. The average reader of the "thriller" guesses, at the denouement while reading an early chapter. If the reader is a student of the particular author he is probably not far off the mark. In Mrs. Belloc Lowndes' story, however, the solution of the problem is excellently veiled, with the result that suspense is maintained right to the end. Ivor Novello plays the lead.The qualifications of "The Lodger" are its excellent entertainment, its gripping emotion and its success in baffling the spectator by its complex mystery. Ivor Novello invests the character of the foreigner with a mysticism that is positively alluring. Elizabeth Allan is good as a sweetheart who, despite the "strangeness" of her mother's lover, grows to love him dearly.The "modernisation" of "The Lodger" is a silent film success of six years ago—an age in the progressive cinematograph industry has brought to the screen not only advanced technique, but introduces scenes which in the silent days would have had little effectiveness.
These include the machine room of a daily newspaper, telephone exchange, a railway station, and a nightclub. The picture is a thriller of the first order."HE LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN"STUART ERWIN IN THE LEADStuart Erwin would have been poor copy for Horatio Alger, Jr.
Not yet 30, Erwin is already a celebrated figure on the screen. His latest picture, "He Learned About Women," a comedy in which he is featured with Allison Skipworth, of "Madame Racketeer" fame, comes to the King's Theatre next Sunday,
but it took no heart-rending struggles against adversity to get him there. His is no saga of the poor boy who made good.No wolves yelped around the Erwin stoop during his boyhood at Squaw Valley, Calif. The son of a well-to-do rancher, he grew up strong, healthy and active. He finished high school and went away to college—the University of California, at Berkeley.It was while he was an undergraduate that he decided to go on the stage. He hid himself to Los Angeles and walked right into a part in "The Open Gate" at the Morosco Theatre there.He did so well that one role after the other developed. Soon movie producers were offering him contracts, and Erwin was signing
'em."He Learned About Women" is his 27th feature film. When his 28th, "Make Me a Star," was finished, he was offered stardom, but declined it on the plea that he preferred to remain a featured player."He Learned About Women" is a fast-moving comedy dealing with the adventures of a young man who has $50,000.000 and a lot of book-knowledge, who suddenly decides it's time he learned about the world. Miss Skipworth, cast as an old actress who has been better days,
and Susan Fleming, cast as an unemployed stenographer, both teach him.

"LEAP YEAR"

AT THE CENTRAL

The Central Theatre presents today the latest British and Dominion success—Tom Walls in "Leap Year," a thoroughly "Wallian" picture. It is from an original story by A. R. Rawlinson, and was directed by Tom Walls. Anne Grey plays opposite the star, and the others forming the strong cast are Edmond Bron, Ellis Jefferys, Jeanie Stanley, Charles Carter, Lawrence Han-

SHYEST STAR GOES TO ELSTREE

CHILD-WOMAN WITH A VOICE THAT SOOTHES

I have just met Helen of Troy, Cleopatra, and Joan of Arc rolled into one in the astonishing person of Elizabeth Bergner, writes Winfred Lorraine in the Daily Express.
She is the new IT star secured for Elstree, who paid a secret visit there over the week-end from Berlin to inspect the designs and scenarios of two films she is to start at the end of the month.Red-haired, minute, with cameo features and eyes that seem half the size of her face, she is ultra-sensitive and highly strung—one of the shyest stars in the world. Fleet in movement, subtle and shrinking, her expression gives her a personality that is entirely different from that of other stars. One thinks of a child-woman.her when she was portraying distress.-She has a partiality for all that is English, since it was the part of Tessa in "The Constant Nymph" that first brought her fame."But I cannot understand why your censor bans 'Amphytrion,' my great play, and 'Ariane,' my great film," she said. "Ariane is an innocent little girl who unconsciously reforms the man she loves from being a libertine. The motives are exquisite."

Hint of Mystery.

"Then, again, when I am working over the scripts of my future films with the English producers they say to my suggestions: 'This is not English mentality—Out.'Joel McCrea, Fay Wray and Leslie Banks in a climax scene in "THE MOST DANGEROUS GAME" RKO-Radio thriller

Idolised in Germany.

Her voice is like the wind in the reeds. It soothes and stirs. To meet her is to meet the substantiation of a dream. It is baffling to try and describe this woman.When she tours in Germany the town she visits turns out to line
the street from the stage-door exit.
Yet she is never seen by the people except behind the footlights on the screen, or in those Madonna picture postcards for which artists borrow her face and eyes.She brings to the playing of her parts such freshness of a first and actual experience that men have leapt from their seats to defendBut what is this bogey, English mentality—since from what I can see your public like German and American films?Elizabeth Bergner should mean a great day for English films. Singing, with her special hint of mystery behind a schoolgirl playfulness, like Cleopatra she might be rolled in a fish basket to escape from a palace. She has all of the Greek Helen's defencelessness, yet with high resolve in her eyes and a tightening of the lips, Joan of Arc-wise, she might lead an army
to deliverance.Here is not the lure of a vamp.
She stands for the presence of an ideal."THE MOST DAN-GEROUS GAME"

COMING TO CENTRAL

A man killed that he might love! Richard Connell dared literary conventions and wrote of the eerie theme in his prize story, "The Most Dangerous Game," which was released in England under the title of "The Hounds of Zoroff" and proved one of the most successful new films. Hollywood read and marvelled at the story of the killer whose prey was his fellow man.
David O. Selznick, youthful dynamo of the RKO Radio Pictures produced on the screen a never-before-told story. Merian O. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, who trapped
the earth's outer rim to bring back
"civilization" such films as
"Grass," "Chang" and "Four Feathers," were assigned to capture with their cameras the spirit of Connell's primitive locale and his amazing characters—a frightened girl, her sweetheart and the killer whose lust was murder in the name of high sport. The result of their work will be shown at The Central Theatre, next change, with Joel McCrea, Fay Wray, Leslie Banks and Robert Armstrong in the cast.Induces a beautiful stranger to dine with him. They go away together and mutually confess when they part—the identities of both remaining a secret—that they have fallen deeply in love. They do not meet again for four years, by which time Mr. Peter has been beguiled into an engagement with another woman.
The picture is a masterpiece of well acted and magnificently produced. "Leap Year," by the way,

"THRILLER"IVOR NOVELLO'S COMPOSI-TION FOR "THE LODGER"Picturegoers will be interested to know that the attractive theme tune which Ivor Novello plays on the piano in "The Lodger" is one of his own compositions. During the taking of this sequence he was seated at the piano, discussing with Director Maurice Elvey, what tune would be most suitable for the occasion, and while they were talking it over Ivor was strumming a melody.
Suddenly, Maurice turned to him and said: "What is that?" Ivor replied: "That's my own tune." Well, there you have it. Ivor Novello is looking for his own tune. It is a delight that Ivor was promptly "shot" playing his own composition.The

U.S. NAVAL CONSTRUCTION

LARGE PROGRAMME
ADVOCATED

Washington.—The Navy Department has calculated that the whole tonnage allowed the United States in virtue of the London Navy Treaty must be constructed before December 31, 1933, in order that the United States might fully utilize her rights recognised by that Treaty.
One hundred and thirty-five new vessels are to be constructed, according to the elaborated programme, to the total displacement of tons 318,530.
Here is the list of vessels, envisaged by the Navy Department, to be submitted to the Senate Navy Commission:
3 hydroplane carriers, displacing 32,220 tons;
9 cruisers, displacing 87,100 tons; 89 torpedo-boats, displacing 133,500 tons; and 34 submarines, displacing 40,730 tons.—Havha.

WHITE STAR LINE CRUISES

LARGE PROGRAMME FOR 1933

The White Star Line announces that six of the finest ships in its fleet, with a total tonnage of over 135,000, are to make 35 cruises this year and are to steam a total of more than 120,000 miles.
The shortest cruise is to start from Liverpool on August 3, when the Calgarie will leave for Spain, calling at Coruna and Santander. The Calgarie is to arrive back in Liverpool eight days later, the minimum rate being only £10. At the other end of the scale the Britannia is to sail from Liverpool on January 28 for the West Indies, and is to be away 40 days. The minimum rate for the trip is £70.
The Homeric, the largest twin-screw steamer in the world, is to make 14 cruises from this country to the Atlantic Isles, Mediterranean, Spain, North Africa, and Balearic Isles, and has the distinction of being the largest vessel regularly cruising from this country. The Homeric's minimum rates vary from £23 for a 14-day cruise to £35 for 19 days.

In 1932, the White Star Line, in conjunction with an Association of Headmasters, planned two successful scholars' cruises, and these are to be repeated in 1933. The Doric is to leave Liverpool on April 12 for Madeira, Morocco, and Gibraltar, the rates being from £10 for scholars and from £15 15s. for adults. The same vessel is to leave Immingham on August 16 for a scholars' cruise to Northern capitals, the fares of the scholars being from £10 10s. and those for adults from £16 16s. Both of these cruises are of 13 days' duration. The Doric is also to make 11 cruises of 13 days each during the season to Madeira, Morocco, Spain, and Portugal. In addition, the Doric is to make a 14-day cruise around Britain and to the Norwegian fjords, leaving on July 29.
The Adriatic is to go south to Madeira, Spain, and Portugal, leaving Liverpool on August 5 and 19. Each of these cruises will last 12 days, and there will be accommodation from £15. The Laurentide is scheduled to leave Liverpool on July 15 for a 13-day cruise around Britain and to Norway, and her second cruise (also of 13 days) will be from Immingham on July 29. The Norwegian fjords and Northern capitals will be visited. The second cruise of the Calgarie, which is to leave Southampton on August 12, has been planned in conjunction with Lord and Lady Baden-Powell for the benefit of Scouters and Guides. The Calgarie is to be away 17 days, and will call at the Northern capitals. The fare is to be only £20. Scouters and Guides are to make official visits to their Scout and Guide colleagues in eight North European countries.

WHEN LAZINESS IS AN ASSET

HOW A GERMAN GENERAL JUDGES HIS OFFICERS.

Berlin.—General Baron Von Hammerstein-Equord, Commander-in-Chief of the German Reichswehr, has, according to a Berlin newspaper, given the following reply to the query as to how he judged his officers:
"I divide my officers into four classes as follows: The clever, the industrious, the lazy, and the stupid. Each officer always possesses two of these qualities. Those who are clever and industrious I appoint to the General Staff.
"I can under certain circumstances be made of those who are stupid and lazy. The man who is clever and lazy qualifies for the highest leadership posts. His lack of initiative and the mental clarity for difficult decisions. But if he is stupid and industrious, he must be got rid of, for he is too dangerous."—Exchange.

TOTAL JAPANESE POPULATION

NOW 90,309,043

Tokyo.—According to data published by the Statistical Bureau on the results of the census taken in 1930, the total population of the Empire of Japan amounts to 90,309,043 inhabitants.
This total is distributed for Japan proper and colonies as follows:
94,433,005 Japan proper
21,088,203 Korea
4,492,538 Formosa
265,108 Sakhalin (Karafuto)
The population of Japan proper comprises 33,393,155 men and only 22,659,850 women. There are 2,408,000 inhabitants in Tokyo and 2,540,000 in Osaka.
The annual growth of the Japanese population keeps at about 600,000, notwithstanding the drop in the birth rate, which begins to be felt in the cities. The decline of the birth rate is at present being compensated to a degree by a decrease in the infantile death rate, which is due to the improved sanitary conditions.

Women's Emancipation.

The progressive emancipation of the young girl, on the one part, and the higher standard of requirements, on the other, are considerably influencing the inclinations of Japanese youth, especially in the cities. Marriages are taking place at a later age the young girl is no longer anxious to become a mother, and there is noticed a decreased desire for children.
Nevertheless, Japan is still far from achieving stabilization of her population. On the other hand, it would be an exaggeration to think this population is suffocating in a too limited territory and that there is an absolute need of new land in order to accommodate it.
Reluctance to Emigrate.
There remain still vast almost uninhabited spaces—as, for instance, Hokkaido—but the Japanese are rather loath to leave their native places and, especially, to expatriate themselves into cold climes.
The failure of the efforts made for the colonization of Hokkaido permits one to predict the impossibility of any considerable Japanese emigration to Manchuria.
Therefore if Manchuria is indispensable to Japan, it is not for the surplus of her population, as some like to assert.

A GREAT TASK COMPLETED

CHINA LIGHT & POWER CO.'S NEW TERRITORY "POWER" SCHEME

ELECTRICITY FOR CASTLE PEAK!

The tremendous task of supplying the New Territories with power and light has now been completed by the China Light and Power Company. The work of erecting the numerous lattice steel towers all over the new territories has at last been accomplished, not without considerable difficulty. These towers carrying the transmission lines are to be seen in places from the new territory road circuit and have become familiar features of the landscape. They are not unlike the well-known grid scheme now operating in England.

Perhaps the most interesting point in the completion of this task to the lay-reader is in the fact that Castle Peak is now linked up with the transmission lines from Tai Po Market and this summer the tranches will have power and light.

Through the Mile Tunnel

The extension of the New Territories transmission line consists of a branch line from the sub-station at Kowloon Tong which leads through the railway tunnel of one mile in length to Shatin. From Shatin the line carries on to Tai Po, to Tai Po Market and on to Fanling, Sheungshui, and Lo Wu. At Kwantai a branch line has just been completed to Shau-Tau Kok on the Chinese border.

At the terminal at Kwantai a further extension runs inland to Au Tau, Un Long, Ping Shan and has reached, just recently, its goal at Castle Peak.

"Over the Hills!"

Perhaps the most difficult of the New Territories power scheme lay in the extension from Shatin to Tsun Wan and linking up at the same time the Shing Mun Valley. This entailed the work of erecting the towers over the high hilly district between Shatin and the Reservoir.

At Tsun Wan the extension has been carried forward to Sham Teing Bay, better known as Thirteen Mile Beach, where the company have specially extended the line to supply the new Brewery which is nearing completion.

With the exception of the gap between Thirteen Mile Beach and Castle Peak, the full circuit of the New Territory has been covered. This gap, however, will be joined up at a later date as there is no immediate demand for the power line over this area.

At Shing Mun Valley a special extension has been run for the requirements of providing power for the machinery in the work of erecting the huge dam. There is no doubt that the Shing Mun Valley Scheme would not have been possible without the assistance of the newly completed power lines.

Task Complete.

The China Light and Power Company have thus completed their undertaking with the Government as regards the provision of a supply of electricity in practically every important centre of the New Territory. The erection of the line has been accomplished in a very satisfactory manner in spite of the very difficult country that has had to be covered, and bears testimony in no small measure, to the ability and ingenuity of the Company's engineering staff.

Huge Reclamation.

The China Light and Power have also recently completed the work of filling in part of Tai Wan beach connecting their present Power Station at Hok On. This area covers a total of 180,000 square feet and includes a sea wall. It is understood that this area will be reserved for the future erection of another power plant should such be necessary.

Incidentally, Kowloon Chimney Row has a new addition. The increasing demands upon the Company's resources have caused a new boiler to be installed. It is now in active service and will enable the China Light to handle effectively all the calls made upon it by the increasing radius of activity.

THE S.S. HEKTOR

KOWLOON-BUILT SHIP IN PORT.

A Kowloon built ship, the S.S. Hektor, flying the Norwegian flag arrived here on Monday. She was built in Hong Kong, having been launched from Kowloon dock in 1921. She went into commission on March 24, 1921, leaving for Fremantle to load a cargo of wheat for Europe. Since that date she has only made one other call at this port; that was in February 1922, when she called for bunkers.

She was on the Marseilles-New York service until eighteen months ago, when, owing to lack of trade, she was laid up at Hamburg. Re-commissioned last January, she loaded a cargo of 7,500 tons at Hamburg, and Antwerp, the major portion of which is some 8,000 tons of iron and steel for Japan.

The above is one of the most familiar views in Kowloon—the clock tower of the Railway Station looking from the Star Ferry.

AN UNFORTUNATE RUSSIAN

DESTITUTE AND NO PASSPORT

Victor Siedoff, a Russian, was arrested in Salisbury Road, Kowloon on Sunday morning by Sergeant Rogers who recognised him as a destitute without a passport. Siedoff was charged on January 22 with defrauding the railway and, in addition to a fine of $25 or two weeks hard labour, was an order for his expulsion from the Colony.

Siedoff was sent to Canton on February 4 but soon returned to be arrested in Kowloon.

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday Detective Sergeant Rozekay asked for the defendant's expulsion from the Colony under the passport regulations.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of $50 or a month's hard labour and made the order for Siedoff's expulsion.

Siedoff in his defence said that he had no money.

H.K. & WHAMPOA DOCK'S DIVIDEND IN 1908

The ordinary yearly meeting of shareholders in the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Co., Ltd. was held at the offices of the Company, Queen's Buildings, at noon yesterday. Mr. H. F. White presided, and there were also present Sir Paul Chater, Hon. Mr. H. Kewick, Messrs. A. Fuchs, W. Helms, G. Friesland, D. W. Craddock, G. E. Medhurst, J. S. van Buren, R. Silverstone (directors), L. Rose (secretary), A. V. Apar, L. B. Indrague, J. P. Bragg, Chai Siu Ki, Chao Leep Choo, A. Denison, F. E. Ellis, E. Georg, W. C. Jack, S. H. Michael, E. J. Moses, B. Mori, W. Parlange, A. Rodger, H. Perry Smith, T. Skinner, W. M. Wickham and A. G. Wood.

The Chairman said—Gentlemen, The report and statement of accounts having been in your hands for some days, I propose, with your permission, to take them as read. The net profits for the half year ending December 31, 1907, amount to $160,611.95 as compared with $401,398.82 for the first six months of the year, and $280,596.36 for the corresponding period of 1906. Your directors propose, subject to your approval, to pay a dividend for the half-year of 8 per cent or $4 per share, absorbing $800,000 and to carry forward the balance of $44,492.51 to a new account. —Hong Kong Daily Press, Feb. 22, 1908.

THE SOLICITING NUISANCE

A Chinese woman was fined $30 by Mr. R. H. Butters at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for illegal soliciting in Park Street. The defendant pleaded guilty.

Read this letter from Prof. Mauricio about benefit of BRACO RYE BREAD

I have tried your "Rye Bread" supplied to me for a fortnight and must thank you for having given me the opportunity of giving your product a trial.

I must admit that the first time I have eaten your bread and as a result, I have increased about 1 lb. in weight and have felt exceedingly strong and fit for the past few days. The change for the better and undoubtedly beneficial and healthy, is due to your product. I have accumulated a lot of energy that I can devote to my work.

I have recommended your bread to several of my pupils and friends, and to those who are serious about their health and strength I very strongly recommend "Rye Bread."

In comparison to other brands of bread that I have tried, I find "Rye Bread" of very high quality. It is very digestible and its taste is agreeable.

It contains all the body-building elements that are required to keep a person in good health. It is a wonderful substitute for other foods because it contains the vitamins essential for development and the maintenance of strength and vitality. Besides containing all the health-giving properties, it is also a strength-giving food for building to muscle and tissue.

Being thoroughly satisfied with your product, I strongly express the conviction of the actual benefit that it has brought to the average healthy man, which is health, vigor and energy are quite sufficient to keep a man in health.

Yours faithfully,
Mauricio

Among them are: Major and Mrs. McL. Ross. Major Ross, who is in the R.E., has received a Staff appointment at Woolwich Arsenal. He is a very likeable officer and an excellent batsman.

Major and Mrs. Alexander and family. Major Alexander took a very prominent part in racing and polo in Peiping.

The Rev. H. R. Norton, C. F. Mrs. Norton and family. Mr. Norton's activities were many-sided, but he was especially remembered for his work for the Union Jack Club, and as an organist and vocalist.

JAPANESE CEMENT EXPORTS FALL

FIGURES FOR 1932

Tokyo.—Unlike other principal articles, which thanks to the slump in the yen exchange were exported in increased amounts, cement exports last year registered a fall of 20 per cent compared with 1931. The following are the monthly figures:

	1932	Compared with 1931
January	29,547 tons	- 46.5
February	31,747	- 37.9
March	24,584	- 53.3
April	29,738	- 24.3
May	31,510	- 32.3
June	26,675	- 42.6
July	34,164	- 28.2
August	41,814	- 2.7
September	40,422	- 5.5
October	41,662	+ 20.1
November	56,929	+ 64.3
December	52,298	+ 112.0

465,669 — 20.8

It was only in the fourth quarter of the year, as shown above, that exports exceeded those of the previous year.

One of the main contributing factors is the sharp drop in exports to China on account of the Manchurian and Shanghai affairs. The loss there was in fact as heavy as 78 per cent. Another factor is tariff increases in the Philippine Islands and the South Seas countries. It must also be noted that the slump in the yen took mainly (Continued on next column)

BACK TO THE CAMPS

15 Days' Training For Territorials

PUBLIC SCHOOL CORPS INCLUDED

The War Office has sent a communication to all General Officers Commanding Territorial Divisions stating that provision had been made in this year's Army Estimates for the annual fifteen days' training in camp. The cost of the camp training or the whole of the Territorial units is about £1,000,000.

The annual training camps for the Officers Training Corps, have also been restored.

Some weeks ago Divisional Commanders were officially advised tentatively to prepare their training programmes for the year, including the normal camp training and to make the usual application for training areas. This has been done.

Practically all the units have lost heavily in personnel because of last year's abandonment of camp, and the uncertainty which has prevailed during the present recruiting season.

As an encouragement to recruiting all the Commands have decided to make this year's training as popular as possible. There is a general demand for a seaside camp, and where a suitable exercise ground is available near the coast several units have made a claim for its use. These "rival" claims are now being satisfactorily adjusted.

The two London Divisions have their arrangements well advanced. Major-General Oldman, who commands the 47th (2nd London) Division, will have nearly all his units in camp at Falmes, near Brighton and Worthing.

Units and Camps.

The Grey Brigade, composed of Princess Louise's Kensington Regiment, London Scottish, Queen's Westminster and Civil Service Rifles, and the Artist Rifles, according to present arrangements, will leave London for Falmes, on July 30 and return on August 13.

The 141st Brigade (Tower Hamlets Rifles, London Irish Rifles, 19th London Regiment (St. Pancras), and the 20th London Regiment (The Queen's Own) will spend the last two weeks of July at Falmes, while the 142nd Brigade are provisionally "booked" for Myrtle Ground, near Worthing, for two weeks beginning July 30.

This Brigade consists of the First Surrey Rifles, The Queen's, East Surrey Regiment, and the 24th London Regiment (The Queen's). Nearly all the Divisional troops (Royal Engineers, Signals, R.A.M.C. and R.A.M.C.) will be accommodated at Falmes with the Grey Brigade, while each Infantry Brigade will have a Brigade of Artillery. The 56th (London) Division commanded by Major-General W. J. Dugan, have provisionally arranged to train units at Arundel and Roedean, near Brighton.

The London Air Defence Brigades will go to Watchet, near Minehead for gun practice.

after August.

Most mills attach much hope to future trade. They have hitherto centred activity on the domestic market, but with their production capacity increased, will endeavour to develop overseas markets.

JAPANESE MAKING FEVERISH PREPARATIONS

FOR LARGE MILITARY OPERATIONS IN JEHOL

LITTLE RESISTANCE EXPECTED IN NORTH OF PROVINCE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, February 21. A MESSAGE from Mukden states that the Japanese are making feverish preparations for large-scale operations, at least two divisions at full strength are being used and possibly more. The preparations include many 'planes. Japanese officials at Mukden state they do not anticipate much resistance in North Jehol, but are silent regarding the rest of the Province.

"NOT MUCH LONGER TO WAIT"

TOKYO, February 21. Though reticent regarding the date of launching the Jehol operations, the War Office indicates they "won't have much longer to wait."

ANOTHER ULTIMATUM!

LATER. A message from Changchun states that Manchukuo has decided to issue a twenty-four hour ultimatum tomorrow afternoon to Nanking that Chang Hsueh Liang withdraw his troops from Jehol, otherwise they will be expelled by force.

CHINESE DENY REPORTS OF FIGHTING

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, Feb. 21. Chinese headquarters are without information concerning the Japanese reports of fighting at Chaoyangfu.

They state that on February 19 a body of Volunteers made an attack near Chinchow, but that so far as is known nothing of the sort occurred yesterday.

"League Will Not Support China In a War."

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 21. Japan's retirement from the League of Nations would result in the most serious crisis since the League's inception, declares the Daily Telegraph in an editorial today.

There have been withdrawals before without shaking the position of the League, but Japan is one of the four architects of the League. Moreover it will shatter what little hope still remains for a measure of success in the Disarmament discussions.

The folly of attempting coercion against Japan in the League's name is out of the question.

Chinese politicians foolishly persuaded themselves that if they make war with Japan in Jehol, the League will take their side in the fighting, declares the Morning Post.

This is a most unfortunate illusion which will probably lead to much bloodshed. The League will best serve the interests of peace by making it clear to China, without further delay, that there is no prospect of any such intervention, the paper adds.

Japan Buys Old British Liners.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 21. The Daily Express in a front page article declares that the purchases of old British liners destined for Japan are believed in shipping circles to be part of a well-prepared plan to use them for war-like purposes in the event of full-scale hostilities in the Far East.

It states that the vessels, which were stipulated by the British parties to be used for "scrap" only, may be broken up and their metal used for making guns and shells, or even used as troop-ships.

The article adds that recently, the steamers Baltic, Megantic, Caronia, Arcadian, Keemun, Mar-chanda and Malancha sailed to Japan, and that the Baltic sailed on only two days' notice.

Fighting Near Chaoyangfu.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

CHINCHOW, Feb. 21. Severe fighting began in the region of Chaoyangfu today, large forces of Japanese troops being thrown into the firing line from the base at Chinchow. The Japanese assert that the Chinese opened the fighting with an attack on the Japanese garrison.

Chinese Blamed.

TOKYO, Feb. 21. Japanese despatches declare that the fighting was precipitated by a Chinese attempt to encircle the Japanese garrison, which was promptly reinforced.

Following the Chinese attack, the Japanese are reported to have launched a counter-attack. The Japanese are expected to advance to Peipiao which is the terminus of the branch railway to the Jehol border.

GERMAN GUNS FOR JAPAN

Among Scrap Iron Cargo From Australia

OPPOSITION LEADER LODGES PROTEST

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

WELLINGTON, Feb. 21. AMONG the cargo of scrap iron loaded at Auckland by a freighter for Japan are several German guns mounted on carriages, nine of which have been stored since the War by the City Council, because they were not wanted as trophies by any public body. The guns sold will now possibly form raw material for Japanese armaments.

The Opposition Leader, Mr. Holland, has given notice to ask the Prime Minister whether in view of the fact that the supply of munitions of war to nations engaged in conflict is a violation of the League Covenant he will lodge a protest with the British Government against British armaments firms supplying munitions to China and Japan.

INDUSTRY MISSION TO SOVIET RUSSIA

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, Feb. 21. MR. CHEN KUNG PO, Minister of Industry, has told the Chinese Press correspondents that the Chinese Government in co-operation with private Chinese bodies, is organising an Industrial Mission to Soviet Russia to study the industrial and trade situation there.

REVOLUTION OF PROCEDURE

LIKELY AT ASSEMBLY MEETING

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Feb. 20. THE forthcoming League Assembly is going to see something like a revolution in procedure, as well as results there will be action with little talk. The meeting of the Assembly on Tuesday will be purely formal, to hear M. Hymans give an account of the negotiations and explain how conciliation failed. No one else is expected to talk at this meeting.

The door of conciliation will not be closed till a definite adoption of the Committee of Nineteen's Report.

At the meeting on Friday, Mr. Matsukata and Dr. W. W. Yen will no doubt speak and perhaps other delegates. Not much progress hitherto has been made towards the appointment of a Special Committee to watch the situation if one of the Parties to the dispute does not accept the Report, and the Negotiating Committee has not yet been summoned.

China may invoke Article XVII of the League Covenant or a slight modification may be made in the machinery for convoking the Negotiating Committee to enable the latter to meet if negotiations do not materialise.

U.S. FLEET TOO SMALL

Adm. Leigh On Need Of New Construction

MORE DESTROYERS AND SUBMARINES NECESSARY

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. THE New York Times San Francisco correspondent, commenting on the manoeuvres just completed, reports that Admiral Leigh, Commander-in-Chief of the U.S. Fleet is emphasizing the need of new construction, particularly the replacement of destroyers, submarines and additional cruisers. He declared that the Japanese had more than the United States, except in battleships in which they were equal.

STATE OF EMERGENCY IN MICHIGAN STATE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LANSING, Feb. 21. A STATE of emergency has been declared by the Michigan State Legislature, giving the Governor virtually dictatorial powers to extend the school holiday, or restrict them, without the aid of the Legislature. The measure was passed by a vote of 100 to 0.

CONTROL OF CIVIL AVIATION

British Policy Voiced At Geneva

OCEANS NO SAFEGUARD AGAINST 'PLANES'

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Feb. 20. THE task of devising a practical scheme, which in the words of Lord Londonderry, the British Air Minister, "will give to all nations real protection against horrors to which the imagination can put no limit, while preserving for their use and convenience the beneficent development of peaceful flying," was begun at Geneva today by the air committee of the disarmament conference.

The Committee met, in pursuance of the resolution passed by the general commission, "to examine the possibility of the entire abolition of military and naval aircraft and bombing from air, combined with effective control of civil aviation."

Referring to the menace which the misuse of aircraft would constitute to civil population, Lord Londonderry said:

"Their development in the last twenty years has laid open to attack cities and centres of population lying far behind the frontier. Each year has seen an increase in the speed, range and carrying capacity of machines so that already aircraft exist which could launch an air attack from one end of Europe to the other."

Oceans No Barrier.

"Even oceans are no longer a barrier and as aircraft, whether civil or military, are increasingly unhampered by time and distance, the whole world is becoming as one continent."

He was authorised to restate, on behalf of his Government, the declaration made last November by Sir John Simon, that the United Kingdom Government are prepared to subscribe to the universal acceptance of the abolition of naval and military aircraft, and air bombing for police purposes, provided only that there can be devised an effective scheme for the international control of civil aviation which will prevent all possibility of the misuse of civil aircraft for military purposes.

Misuse of Civil Aircraft.

It was manifest that the prohibition of military aircraft and an agreement not to make use of so powerful a weapon, could not give any real sense of security so long as there was no effective guarantee that civil aircraft could not be so misused. The problem before the committee, therefore, was to devise such an effective regulation of civil aviation as would make feasible the abolition of naval and military aircraft and the prohibition of air bombardment. Without such regulation the danger to the world's peace would otherwise be increased.

SILVER MARKET

LONDON PRICES

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

LONDON, Feb. 21. FOLLOWING ARE THE SILVER QUOTATIONS ON THE LONDON MARKET TO-DAY:

SPOT	17.3/16	18.15/16
FORWARD	17 1/2	17

Two Conditions.

Any such scheme must satisfy at least two conditions. "It must prevent all possibility of the resources of civil aviation used for military purposes in the event of an outbreak of hostilities and it must not prevent or hamper the fullest development of aviation in every country for civil and commercial purposes nor restrict freedom in the realm of experiment and research. Regarding the first, Lord Londonderry pointed out that the July resolution contemplated that some regions should be excluded, but the means were obviously required to prevent the civil machines existing in those areas being available for military purposes.

Safeguarding Future.

Regarding the second condition, it was inconceivable that a convention designed to promote security and goodwill among nations should be such as to check the free development of what was perhaps the most important agent of the present day for encouraging peaceful communications and the development of commercial and friendly intercourse.

Speaking of the problem which the committee must face, Lord Londonderry said only in its infancy, and that they were considering a convention to safeguard the future as much as the present.

STARTLING ORDER TO BERLIN POLICE

'Enemies Of The State' To Be Shot

WAR ON COMMUNISTS DECLARED IN GERMANY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BERLIN, Feb. 20. CAPTAIN Goering, the Prussian Commissioner for the Interior and Herr Hitler's right-hand man in the Nazi organisation, today issued a somewhat startling order to the Berlin police.

He has ordered the police to shoot down Communists "and other enemies of the State" without hesitation and simultaneously instructed them to protect and establish the friendliest relations with Nationalist organisations like the Nazi storm-troops, and the Steel Helmets.

The order says that weapons may be used ruthlessly against organisations hostile to the State and protection is promised to the police using firearms in the exercise of their duties, whatever may be the consequences of the shooting.

The police are enjoined to remember that it is more reprehensible to omit a repressive measure than to make an error in execution.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

MIAMI, Feb. 20. ZANGARA, the man who attempted to shoot the President-Elect, Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, was today sentenced to a total of eighty years' imprisonment.

There were four charges against him, all of attempted murder and he was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment on each charge, the sentences to run consecutively.

Pleading Guilty. Zangara pleaded guilty to all the charges, thereby putting an end to expectations that he would attempt to escape imprisonment by claiming that he was insane at the time the attack was made.

GHASTLY TRAGEDY AT SHANGHAI RUBBER SHOE FACTORY

Workers Trapped In Raging Inferno and Incinerated

Indescribable Scenes As Mob Clashes With Police

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SHANGHAI, February 21. ONE of the most ghastly industrial tragedies in local history occurred this morning at a Chinese rubber shoe factory in the Yangtzepoo district, resulting in an estimated death-roll of over a hundred Chinese who were trapped in the burning building and incinerated.

The factory consisted of a two-storied brick structure with a boiler-room on the ground floor where there were approximately three hundred Chinese male and female employees, the majority being children.

The main boiler exploded, blasting the walls and immediately starting a huge blaze which covered the upstairs communication.

The second explosion precipitating the majority of the employees upstairs into the raging furnaces below.

WHOLE FACTORY GUTTED

Within a short period of time the whole factory was gutted incinerating the majority of the inmates.

Seventy were taken to hospital in a terrible condition. It is believed the remainder, with the exception of a few, lost their lives though the authorities are unable to estimate the death-roll.

The Police Riot Squad was needed to control the huge crowd of excited Chinese friends and relatives who had gathered following the news of the disaster.

Indescribable scenes were witnessed when the mob clashed with the Police, while the fire was raging. Local authorities are now making the fullest enquiries, since the lack of any factory legislation in Shanghai prevents the proper inspection of industrial establishments.

EIGHTY-ONE WORKERS REPORTED KILLED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 21. The casualties are now placed at 81 killed, 50 seriously injured and seventy slightly injured. Ten are still missing.

Many of the injured are in a most critical condition. The cause of the catastrophe has not been determined. The owner of the factory has disappeared.

GIRL WORKERS IN RAGING INFERNO

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 21. It is at present believed that at least two hundred lives were lost by the explosion of two huge gasoline vulcanisers in the factory of the Zungdah Rubber Co. at Yangtzepoo this morning.

The explosion made horrible shambles of the two-story brick factory in which machinery, bricks, concrete, burnt wood and charred bodies were indiscriminately mixed.

There were two blasts. Fire followed the first while the second explosion blew out the wall and ceiling of the boiler-room precipitating 100 girl workers from the upper floor into the raging inferno below.

Eighty of the workers are reported dead, 70 sent to hospital, while 100 are still missing.

INTERNATIONAL HORSE SHOW

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Feb. 20. ALTHOUGH the Company which has run the annual International Horse Show decided today to be wound up voluntarily, efforts are being made, independently, by Lord Londonderry and other influential sportsmen, to hold the show this year on the same scale as that of last summer, which was the most successful of recent years.

MUTINY ABOARD DUTCH WARSHIP

Committee of Enquiries Report

COMMANDER RELIEVED OF HIS POST

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BATAVIA, Feb. 20. THE Commission of Enquiry into the sensational events following the mutiny aboard the Dutch battleship, De Zeven Provinciën, have submitted a preliminary report to the Commander-in-Chief.

The conclusions reached in the interim report were outlined by the Navy Commander in a statement before the People's Council today. He said that sections of both the native and European crew planned the outbreak, which was due to dissatisfaction with the recent pay cuts.

The dissatisfaction was particularly great among the native ratings, who felt that they had been unfairly discriminated against.

The success of the mutiny, however, was made possible by the lack of precautionary measures and the absence of shore of the senior officers and the majority of the petty officers.

He added that it had not yet been satisfactorily proved that the officers acted sufficiently energetically in their attempts to regain control. The Commander and the First Officer have been relieved of their posts and discipline has been restored.

BICYCLE RACE ACROSS CANADA

4,000-MILE ROUTE FROM VANCOUVER TO MONTREAL

Vancouver.—The longest bicycle race in the world is to be held in Canada in the coming August under the sanction of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, governing body of cycling in the Dominion. Between the starting point at Vancouver and the finish line at Montreal the contestants will cover about 4,000 miles of Canadian road and the distance exceeds even that of the "Tour de France," the French wheel classic. Prize money amounting to about $5,000 will be divided among the first fourteen riders, the winner receiving $1,500. The race will be by daily laps and five weeks will separate beginning and end.

The riders will travel over the tortuous mountain roads of the Rockies, the level plains of the Prairie Provinces, skirt the rugged shore of Lake Superior, the paved highways of Ontario and Quebec, crossing in all five provinces and part of a sixth. Each day's lap will be from 75 to 150 miles, with sprints for money prizes.

The best of the world's long-distance riders are expected to assemble in the training camp at Vancouver, and entries are assured from France, Italy, Belgium, Germany, the United States, as well as many from Canada.

ABDULLA AT THE RACES

For the races, Angeline
Bought a silken dress of green,
Wore it with a dashing air
Of all the "Lovelies" she most fair.
Edwin, feeling very proud,
Placed their bets and laughed aloud.

But the pony that he chose Frisked her tail and blew her nose,
Said she did not care to run,
Round the Valley in the sun,
Angelina tossed her head,
"You're a help" was all she said.

Edwin offered tea, champagne,
Cakes and chocolates, all in vain.
Timidly again he spoke—
"Darling would you like a smoke?"
ABDULLA'S magic wave it's spell,
Next race they won, and all was well!

The "Imperial" is designed and made in England by people who understand English requirements. Foreign made typewriters, imported from countries using the metric system, lack such typically English signs as "B". The "Imperial" keyboard has six extra characters — just those symbols which the English typist has always needed but never possessed.

In construction, the "Imperial" is a "sound British engineering job" — with all that the phrase implies.

JAPANESE STOCK EXCHANGE

However it is no secret that the islands figure prominently in the navy's plans for dominance of the western Pacific and the strongest insistence on their retention comes from naval quarters. Admiral Onuma did say that Japan is not fortifying the islands now nor building submarine or air bases there, and added that Japan will continue to observe faithfully her obligations under the Washington naval treaty not to further fortify her outlying Pacific possessions.

Refuse Return.

Responsible government leaders have avoided making direct statement concerning the future of the Pacific mandates—the Carolines, Marshalls and Marianas—but according to one of the leading newspapers, the Tokyo Asahi, Count Yasuya Uchida, the foreign minister, at a recent secret session of the House of Representatives declared withdrawal from the League would not affect possession of the islands.

The Japanese press has been publishing numerous statements attributed to unnamed officials setting forth elaborate arguments to justify refusal to return the islands to the suzerainty of the League.

The Tokyo Nichi Nichi quoted at great length a foreign official argument to the effect that the Covenant of the League does not specify that a mandatory power must be a member of the League, citing the fact that a mandate over Armenia was offered to the United States after America had rejected the League and the Versailles settlement.

Secret Treaties.

This argument admitted that it was Japan's responsibility to administer the islands in accordance with the provisions of the League's mandate, making an annual report concerning them to the Geneva organization. If Japan should secede from the League, it was stated, these reports would be continued.

Another article in the Nichi Nichi declared that it was the Supreme War Council of the Allies, in May 1919, that distributed former German possessions among the Allied Powers in accordance with the secret agreements, subsisting among them, all this before the League came into being.

Along this line there is a frequently quoted argument, credited both to the navy and the foreign office, that the Pacific mandates are actually Japan's rightful spoils of war, and that the mandates system was a pretence covering actual annexations, evolved at the time that the dominant position of the Atlantic Woodrow Wilson made it impossible for us to call things by their real names.

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX CORPORATION

HISTORY AND BUSINESS

February 21.
Paramount Publix Corp. was incorporated under the laws of New York on July 19, 1918, as the Famous Players Lasky Corp. On April 1, 1927, the name was changed from Famous Players Lasky Corp. to Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, and on April 24, 1930, name was again changed to its present title. The Corporation and its subsidiaries are engaged in the production and distribution of motion pictures; theatre operation. On late figures, around 1,300 theatres in United States owned, controlled or leased by subsidiary and affiliated companies. Theatres operated in nearly all principal foreign countries through branches and subsidiaries.

Comment.

Under the combined influence of diminishing earnings and the necessity of meeting stock repurchase obligations, Paramount arranged, in April last, for an open line of credit aggregating between $13,000,000 and $15,000,000. Certain film assets were pledged as collateral for the loan. Not only has this action resulted in the injection of banker control, but has saddled the company with a considerable total of short term indebtedness. The cost of motion-picture production was cut 31 per cent. from January 1, 1932, while salaries of all executives were reduced 35 per cent. Paramount Publix Corp., one of the largest real-estate owners and operators in the world, has just completed a survey of 1,044 domestic leases involving an annual rental of $17,196,000. That work has resulted in 237 rental reductions amounting to approximately $2,000,000, of which $1,100,000 is applicable to 1932. The corporation proposes to provide reserves for revaluation of fixed assets as of April 2, 1932, which will be charged against a capital surplus created by changing the common stock from 60 par value to $10 par. Receivers in equity for Paramount Publix Corp. were asked in a suit filed in the Federal District Court in New York, which also asks the removal of the Chase National Bank as trustee of the $14,000,000 fund bond. 20-year sinking fund bond issue of the corporation. The suit also asks that the court declare the full amount of this issue now due and payable to bondholders. Immediate payment of the bonds is asked on the grounds that the terms of the indenture were violated when, on June 28, 1930, Paramount Publix declared a cash dividend to stockholders amounting to $3,151,514, although Paramount "had sustained losses of $10,000,000 in purchasing stock of subsidiaries." This payment of dividends, it is charged, reduced the consolidated working and current assets of Paramount and its subsidiaries to less than two times the current liabilities, thus violating the terms of the indenture.

HONG KONG BANK'S DIVIDEND

"THE TIMES" COMMENT

From the City Notes in The Times—

The cabled dividend announcement of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation for 1932 makes a very favourable impression. The final dividend is 23 per share, making 28 for the year, the same as for 1931, while the amount written off premises is increased from $500,000 to $1,500,000, the balance carried forward is $3,430,000, against $3,421,511. Thus in a year of generally poor trading conditions in the Far Eastern countries the bank's profits would appear to have shown improvement. In 1931 profits were materially reduced, and at the general meeting the chairman ascribed the fall to exceptional losses arising from the heavy drop in commodity prices, the sudden rise in the China exchange which was caused by sterling's departure from gold, speculation and over-trading.

FLEETS OF THE WORLD

No Reductions In Sight

BRITISH CRUISER PROBLEM

"At the end of the year in which there was held the first International Conference on Disarmament the nations showed no immediate intention to reduce their sea forces. Although proposals for limitation were both numerous and varied, the task of reconciling them into an agreement satisfactory to even a majority proved insuperable. "As the needs of each country for national defence differ, so did the degree of importance which each attached to the particular arms or standards of strength. Nor did the events of the year tend to support the assertion that armaments are the primary cause of war. There was unrest in many parts of the world. . . .

"In these circumstances, it is hardly to be wondered at that Governments were reluctant to exchange the substance of their tried means of defence for the shadow of reliance upon international agreement, especially when history shows so many examples of the disregard of paper pacts."

The truth of this opening paragraph of the preface to the 44th issue of "Brassey's Naval and Shipping Annual" will hardly be disputed, and the subsequent chapters in the Naval Section which deal with British and Foreign Navies will be studied with considerable disquiet.

In the chapter dealing with comparative naval strength, the cruiser position of this country at the present moment, and in 1930, when present Naval Treaties lapse, is as follows:

	1933	1930
Ships under age	43	32
Ships over age	8	13
Total	51	50

Diminished Reserves.

To those who consider that Great Britain has been lagging in disarmament the following figures should act as a corrective. Since 1913 the British Navy has been reduced as follows: Battleships from 69 to 15; cruisers from 108 to 50; destroyers from 285 to 117; submarines from 74 to 28. Reckoned in total tonnage, by the end of 1930 the Navy of the British Empire will have been decreased by 47 per cent.; that of the United States of America many have been increased by 29 per cent.; and that of Japan by 37 per cent.

The position of personnel and reserve is serious; Japan, 80,000; Great Britain, 91,410; United States, figure does not include 11,886 professional man-of-war's men in the Coastguard. The position of reserves is worse: U.S.A. 42,505; Japan, 50,000; the British Empire, 33,800.

The Annual reminds us that the question of personnel is outside the scope of any Treaty, so that our dangerous weakness in trained seamen is entirely self-inflicted.

Mr. C. H. Hurford points out the ironical coincidence that just as the battleship fleets of Great Britain, United States and Japan are being scaled down under the London Treaty of 1930, competition in capital ships is resumed between France and Germany.

The Merchant Shipping section covers a wide field. Mr. Cuthbert Maughan, in an interesting chapter on shipping policy, deals with the subsidy plague at considerable length and he shows the havoc it has wrought on British shipping.

THE TUNNEL SCHEME PENDING

Narbon, February 3.—Madrid: The Home Minister declared in a Press interview that the work of the commission entrusted with the task of preparing plans for the construction of a tunnel under the Straits of Gibraltar was making good headway and he was confident that the gigantic scheme, which many still consider Utopian, may be realised sooner than expected.—Trans-Ocean Service.

U.S. FLEET AND SINGAPORE BASE

ALARMIST REPORT IN U.S. NEWSPAPER.

The New York Sun recently published a rather alarmist report of the British Government's intention to offer America the use of the Singapore base for warship repairs. It is alarmist because of the present touchy relations with Japan, and because if the offer was made it would enable the American naval authorities to strengthen their Asiatic fleet to a point which would make operations against the Philippines by a hostile power a very hazardous undertaking. At present the American fleet in Asiatic waters is composed mainly of obsolescent cruisers and destroyers with a few modern type submarines. There are no battleships. Manila having no facilities for them.

Hong Kong Precedent.

But the reported offer is not quite so sensational as it reads. While primarily a strategic base, there is no reason whatever why American, Japanese or any other warships should not be repaired there. The Hong Kong naval yard, for instance, has frequently undertaken such work for foreign vessels, both warships and mercantile marine, and Singapore will doubtless perform the same services (for the same charges) and be glad to do so.

In the event of America being engaged in war, however, the position would be entirely different, the stay of a belligerent warship in a neutral port being restricted to 24 hours. The only circumstances under which Singapore could continue to repair American warships in time of war would be if Britain was an ally.
